Gifts for the June Bride—Sheffield Silver in Tankards and Compotes Quite Expensive But Very Choice—Silver Necklaces Flat and Set With Odd Fashioned Stones—Many Other Exquisite Gifts for the Bride—Wash Strawberries Before Removing Stems—Excellent Way to Preserve Strawberries—Strawberry Jelly—Simple and Satisfactory Way to Clean Aluminum.

GIFTS FOR THE BRIDE.

The June bride may have her path-way to the church door strewn with fresh flowers, but her gift table will bear the stamp of rare old age.

Never in the history of the trade has there been such a demand for antiques as wedding gifts, says an exchange.

In New York City there are four solid blocks of shops near the city center, popularly known as Antique avenue and to these shops are coming orders from all over the United States for wedding gifts of old silver.

Some of the orders come from private customers, but more from dealers in other cities flooded by orders which they are not prepared to fill for the fashion in antiques changes with all the suddenness of the proverbial winds.

The gift pre-eminent is a piece of genuine Sheffield plate, which means that the plating is done over copper, and the bowl or lining is of glass in such colors as modern blouses cannot reproduce.

The Sheffield silver dates as far back as 1793, its age and genuineness being determined by the hallmark placed thereon by the English government and which is not in evidence in a spurious piece of work.

For a popular bride there was recently bought at a fabulous price a gray boat in Sheffield silver of 1793 date, measuring six inches long, which has beak and handle so peculiarly shaped that the whole piece suggests a swan in miniature. The whole is marvelously chased and hammered, but black with age.

Tankards and compotes in this way are superb examples of renaissance work, and the glass bowls which fit into them are in colors that defy description or imitation. They are best described as rich cathedral tones of crimson, blue and yellow or orange, always suggesting sunlight glittering through them.

For a sum as low as $18 there may be bought a tiny bit of Sheffield, known as the jeweled church urn. It is no higher than three inches, but the work is perfect and the jeweling admirable. One of the largest pieces on sale is a silver platter as big as a small serving table, done in filigree and repousse, with a heavy, plain cover, oval shaped.

Silver necklaces of various periods and lands are also in demand, and they, too, are black with age and defy modern cleaning appliances. The necklaces must be flat, in the form of links, set at intervals of three or four, with old-fashioned jewels, topaz, emeralds, sapphires and rubies.

In ceramics, blue crockery, either old English or delft, is in favor. But the piece—and a single piece is the correct gift—must be distinctly quaint in shape and dull in tint. A crack, yellow with age, is not considered a great drawback, but rather stamps the dish with age and service.

Of the big pieces, the quaintest are the meat platters, which look as if they were intended for serving a baron and his retainer. In the center is a deep hollow for the roast or steak, while in the big scallops on each end is ample room for a supply of chops.

Next come the candlesticks, as high as the ordinary woman's heart, with candles two inches in diameter towering high above her head. A pair of these make a gift, and they are intended to stand guard at each side of a room's entrance.

A quaint center piece is a dish which might be intended for a birthday cake. In its center is a hole for the candle to stand in with a dish below to catch the sperm as it melts. Tiny candlesticks with standards, for all the world like cake ornaments, come for desks or curio cabinets.

In mirrors the demand is for Florentine frames, which shoot out two eyes or more like centipedes. For hanging these there come old gold cords and tassels, dull with age. Old furniture is not greatly in demand for wedding gifts, though there is a brisk trade in colonial furnishings of all sorts.

PRESERVING STRAWBERRIES.

Wash the strawberries thoroughly, putting them in a colander and plunging them up and down in cold water, let them drain and remove the stems carefully to preserve the whole appearance of each berry.

Weigh the berries, and allow three pounds of granulated sugar with one pint of strained honey to every four pounds of the berries.

Put alternate layers of sugar and berries in a preserving kettle, commencing with the sugar. Set this away in a cool place for two hours, then put it over the fire and bring slowly to the boiling point, letting it boil for five minutes without stirring.

Lift the berries with a fork on to a large platter. Boil the sirup until it is reduced one-half, then add the honey and let it boil a minute or two longer. Care must be taken that it does not scorch.

Pour the boiling-hot sirup over the berries, then let them stand in the sun for two days, or until the sirup has thickened. Put away in glass tumblers or jars covered with paraffin.

Strawberries preserved in this way will keep an indefinite length of time and are truly delicious.

Strawberry Jelly.

Strawberry jelly may be made of strawberry juice alone if the berries are quite tart; but if they are sweet or full ripe a little red currant juice or lemon juice in the proportion of half a cupful of red currant juice or the juice of a small lemon should be added.

To each pint of the mixed juice a pound of sugar is allowed.

English housewives make a delicate jelly of the berries alone before they are fully ripe in this way:

Put into a preserving kettle berries that have been carefully picked and cleaned. Crush slightly with a wooden spoon until the juice flows freely and simmer gently over a slow fire for half an hour. Strain the sirup through a jelly bag and return it to the fire to boil briskly for fifteen minutes with constant stirring.

CARE OF ALUMINUM.

Every housekeeper who uses the pretty aluminum kitchen ware knows how trying it is to have the utensils become discolored and scorched, yet many do not know how easy a matter it is to keep them shining and spotless.

The following way to clean them is at once very simple and satisfactory: Nearly fill a big, clean pot or dishpan with hot water, adding a good cupful of soda (either washing soda or baking soda). Into this put all the small pieces of aluminum and set the pan on the stove where it may boil hard. After ten minutes of good boiling, remove and rinse the articles with clean water. You will find that the grease and stains will be almost completely removed—entirely so if the stains are fresh.

When the article to be cleaned is too large to go into another pot or pan, fill it with water and a tablespoon of soda and let it boil by itself.

BELLAMY-BATES WEDDING.

Pocatello, Ida., June 3.—Willard Bellamy and Miss Mabel Arella Bates were married yesterday by Judge Moyes in the presence of a few friends of the contracting parties. The groom is the well-known foreman of the baggage room at the O. S. L. station and has held that position for several years. The bride is a graduate nurse of the Pocatello hospital. They left yesterday for Portland for a brief honeymoon.

those at Bumpas Hill, nearly four miles distant, where steam and water are being thrown out nearly all the time.

The phenomena is a geyser action and not volcanic.

POCATELLO WANTS MORE MONEY.

Pocatello, Ida., June 3.—The budget recently made up by the mayor and the city council shows that the city of Pocatello will require about $45,000 more to run the expenses of the municipality for the next year than it did for last year. The last appropriation was $102,100, and it seems that $148,150 will be necessary for next year, because of increased expense in the construction of a new city hall, in purchasing a half interest in the city and county hospital and the appropriation of $15,000 for the purchase of a city park, as well as minor increases in all of the departments to meet the demands of a growing city.

SPRINGVILLE DELEGATES.

Springville, June 3.—The Democrats of this city held a primary last evening and elected eleven delegates and six alternates to the state congressional district convention to be held in Salt Lake City June 11. The delegates elected are: G. W. Mendenhall, I. W. Boyer, R. H. Palfreyman, J. S. Hall, Ray Evans, Mrs. Abbie Burt May Bird, J. F. Wingate, W. K. Johnson, Elizabeth Bird and R. Palfreyman. Alternates—Alve Sebriska, Virgil Bird, Fred Cutler, Bird Huntington, H. S. Clyde, Mary Mendenhall and J. S. Boyer.

LARGEST FLAGPOLE IN WORLD.

San Francisco, Cal., June 4.—What is said to be the largest flagpole in the world, an Oregon fir, 230 feet long and 6 feet in diameter, at the butt, was to be raised on the Panama-Pacific exposition grounds today. It is the gift of Astoria, Oregon.

SPRING SURPRISE MARRIAGE.

Pocatello, Ida., June 3.—Ray Downey, a popular young man of the city, president of the senior class at the Academy of Idaho last year, and Miss Mae Moore, a special student last semester in domestic science, sprung a surprise on their friends when they were quietly married last Sunday evening at the Presbyterian parsonage. Mr. Downey is an employee of the Bistline Lumber company and his bride is from Kentucky, only arriving here last fall.

CARPENTERS' UNION ENJOYS A SMOKER

The local carpenters union held an interesting meeting last night, which was followed by a smoker. James A. Gray, an organizer for the national carpenters' organization, was the principal speaker of the evening. He has been in the city about ten days, during which thirty-five new members have been initiated into the local union, with ten additional applications pending.

W. D. Watson acted as toastmaster for the evening and, in addition to a number of appropriate toasts, a solo by Peter Sundberg and a duet by Laker Hansen and Carl Strupee, helped to make the occasion a most enjoyable one. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of George Brown, Chris Peterson and H. Pierman.

GEYSER ACTION AT MOUNT LASSEN

Red Bluff, Cal., June 4.—Forest Supervisor W. J. Rushing, after an inspection made on Mount Lassen, reported today that he found a cavity about 100 feet in diameter covered with ashes about a foot thick. He says the hole is about 100 feet from a frozen lake in which the ice is melting and the water running into one of the heated fissures forced up ashes and mud. It is thought another geyser is being formed similar to

WALTER E. READ IS LAID TO REST

Salt Lake, June 3.—Funeral services for Walter E. Read, who was killed in an automobile accident in Ogden canyon last Sunday night, were held at the Twenty-first ward chapel yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

W. J. Tuddenham of the ward bishopric, officiated at the services. Addresses were delivered by Joseph Wells and W. D. Brown. The opening prayer was offered by H. J. Folger.

The chapel was crowded to capacity. "Crossing the Bar" was sung by David Reese. Willard Andellin rendered "To Scenes of Peace Returning." Robert Slidoway sang "The Lord Knoweth Why," and Miss Knight sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

Floral tributes were lavish and of remarkable beauty. Interment was in the City cemetery. The grave was dedicated by Fred M. Michelson.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For many years, doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment.

Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SCALY PIMPLES ON HANDS AND ARMS

Little White Bumps Came in Clusters. Would Swell Up, Burn, Itch and Ache. Couldn't Sleep For Torture. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

6 East Sixth St., Coffeyville, Kan.—About two years ago my pet kitten caught some kind of disease. I tried to doctor the little thing and I caught the disease on my hands and arms. It first broke out in little watery pimples and when the water dried out they all ran together and got so bad. There were lots of little white bumps about as big as the end of a pin and they would come in clusters. When I would scratch them yellow water would appear. Then my hands and arms would swell up and burn and itch and it seemed like I would go crazy. Heat would make it worse. When the weather was hot I couldn't sleep nights for the torture. I felt so ashamed of my hands they looked so terrible. I couldn't bear any clothing to touch my arms at all. "I used every ointment and lotion I could hear of for relief but nothing seemed beneficial. So after over a year of suffering and torture I heard of Cuticura Soap and ointment and I got some. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and they cured my arms and hands." (Signed) Miss Laura Medberry, June 5, 1913.
